WESTERN HOSTS CONSIDERING COLLEGE PROGRAM

St. Joseph, Mo. — Nov. 3, 2005 — For many adults, thinking about going back to college or going for the first time can be overwhelming and intimidating. In an effort to answer their questions, the nontraditional student center at Missouri Western State University will host a Considering College seminar for adults thinking about enrolling in college for the first time or coming back after an absence. The seminar will be from 2-4 p.m. Nov. 16 in Fred Eder Hall, room 208. To sign up for the program or for more information, contact Ellen Kisker, director of the nontraditional student center, at 816-271-4280. Preregistration is encouraged.

Prospective students will have an opportunity to learn about enrolling, getting financial aid, finding resources on campus, choosing a major and more. A short tour of the campus will be offered.

“Considering College is important because it gives the potential student a chance to see the campus in a nonthreatening manner. The folks attending will meet with helpful resource staff and will meet other nontraditional students who are already attending this campus,” says Kisker. “I hope that adults will go away feeling that nontraditional students are a welcome segment of our student population.”

Kisker said Considering College addresses nontraditional students' fears, such as competing successfully in college after being out of school, finances and trying to juggle multiple responsibilities at home and work.
