Welcome to the Web site for English/Theater 341 Shakespeare, a course taught by Ed Malone in the Department of English, Foreign Languages, and Journalism (EFLJ), in the Division of Liberal Arts and Sciences (LAS), at Missouri Western State College. Offered every fall semester, ENG/THR 341 is a required course in the Bachelor of Arts in English Literature and the Bachelor of Science in English Education and counts as an LAS computer literacy course in both degrees. It also fulfills the Area Six Aesthetic Appreciation requirement for the Bachelor of Interdisciplinary Studies.

This Web site was designed primarily for students enrolled in the course, but visitors are welcome to explore the archive and even contribute annotations to the current Sonnet Site. The navigation panel to your left provides links to different sections of the course syllabus: a statement of policies, a description of assignments, a course calendar, a list of Web resources or "links" related to Shakespeare studies, and the current roster of students. The archive contains student projects and postings from previous semesters: electronic editions of pre-1926 critical articles, original critical essays, reviews of stage productions, Web-site reviews, virtual marginalia of sonnets, and bibliographies.
