Now Featuring for Fall 2015

JOU 212: Yearbook Production MW 2-2:50 pm in Eder 220

The Griffon Yearbook offers the valuable opportunity for students to gain experience writing features, commentary, and sports; designing full-color magazine-style spreads and infographics; selling and designing ads; shooting photos and video spots with our DSLR cameras. Student work is published on the Griffon Yearbook website and also in the campus annual, The Griffon. This is one of the best experiences on campus to learn and polish design best practice skillsets. Griffon Yearbook alumni have went on to work in publication design positions for newspapers, magazines and online publications. Fall 2015 marks the launch of the Griffon Yearbook video app that will feature video spots that correspond with many of the stories in the upcoming book.

No Pre-Requisites for course.

Major Incentives:
- Scholarships for available for returning students
- Attend local, state and national college media conferences, including the spring convention each year in NYC.
- Paid positions available for editorial staff.
- Opportunities to enter writing, photography and design work for local, state, national and international awards.
- Field trips to Walsworth Publishing in Marceline, MO to witness the book being published in action.
- The production of glossy full-color portfolio pieces at the end of each year alongside original work that is published and distributed online.

This is a great way for new students to get involved and feel connected to MWSU as they will be the first to know about all things that are happening on campus from sporting events to Greek life, campus clubs and everything in-between.
