Missouri Western's Centennial Capital Campaign kicked off in January 2015 with an initial celebration goal of $20 million to address many of the University's funding priorities, including facility improvements, endowment growth, and program support.

Highlights through December 31, 2018

The campaign kicked off with a $10 million deferred gift commitment to the endowment from an alumnus who lives in St. Joseph and wishes to remain anonymous.

The Foundation also received a $1.5 million pledge from Mosaic Life Care to endow a professorship in the field of population health. The Mosaic Professorship for Population Health was the first endowed professorship in Missouri Western's history.

The campaign also funded the renovation of Spratt Memorial Stadium. Work began in 2015 and was completed in 2016, thanks to a combination of public and private support. The stadium project included new turf for the field, removing the track around the field, moving the visitor side bleachers closer to the field and replacing the seating on the home side. Steven L. Craig donated funds for an extra-large video scoreboard and the field was named Craig Field in his honor.

A three-story building was also part of the project, featuring a new concourse area with a ticket office, team store, two concession stands and larger restrooms. A new Stadium Club was built two to three times larger than the previous space. The second floor houses individual suites with both indoor and outdoor seating and a serving area, in addition to restrooms, a full kitchen and a Hall of Fame room. The third level includes a control room for the video board, a coaches' suite and a press box.

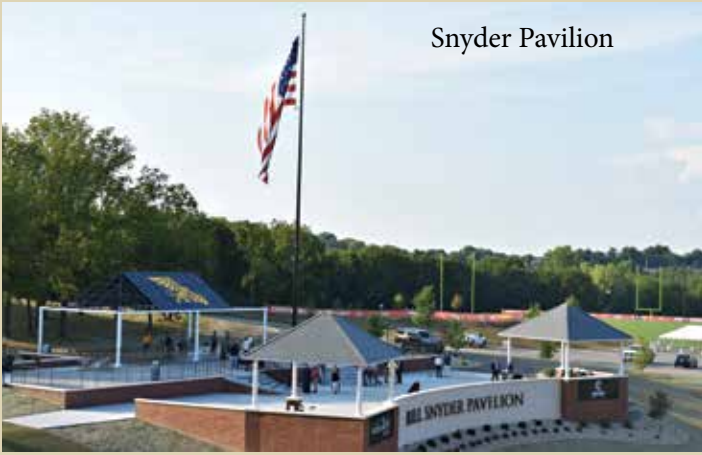

A new Victory Plaza was also created between the stadium and the Griffon Indoor Sports Complex as part of the campaign, and 274 engraved bricks have been sold since it was built.

Snyder Pavilion

In 2018, the Bill Snyder Pavilion in Spratt Stadium was dedicated, thanks to a gift from Steven L. Craig. The two-level area offers a great gathering and tailgating space for fans.

This past year, campaign funds also helped the Looney Complex arena receive an upgrade, which included all new seating and bleachers, paint and new graphics. This work was made possible by an anonymous donor.

In Potter Hall, several common areas were updated and there were improvements to the heating and cooling systems, thanks to capital improvement funds from the state and a donation of the 2015-16 membership dues of the Missouri Western Arts Society.

Potter Hall

The Missouri General Assembly appropriated $150,000 for architectural services, which was matched by campaign funds. The money was used to hire Patterhn Ives architectural firm in December 2016 to provide planning and design services and a vision for the future of Potter Hall.

The architects have proposed two additions to Potter Hall: one dedicated to performing arts and one to the three-dimensional arts. The performing arts addition would house a 3,000 square-foot instrumental rehearsal studio and an 80-seat flexible theater, and the 3D annex would house sculpture and ceramics studios. The plans also include three courtyards. Renovation plans of the existing space include a new choral hall and a large classroom that would also serve as a cinema screening room.
