

Fall 2019

WOMEN & RELIGION

REL 360

MWF 2:00pm – 2:50pm

From goddesses and virgin mothers to burqas and widow burning—what do the world’s religions really teach about the place of women in the world?

This course will introduce you to a variety of the world’s religions with a particular focus on the ways in which women appear in sacred texts, how women have historically been perceived and treated by those religions, the forms of participation open to women, and what women themselves have to say about their own religious traditions.

This course counts towards the minors in Gender & Power Studies, Religion (as core requirement), and Peace & Conflict Studies (as restricted elective) — as well as majors in both Philosophy and Religion.

For more information, contact Dr. Mathies.